

Annalena Spratte

Annalena volunteered for Jatan in September 2011 during a holiday from her studies of education in Kiel, Germany. Annalena worked in the Apna Centers and did a great job improving the work in the centers. She brought many new games and activities for the children and new methods and ideas for the teachers to the centers. In addition Annalena redesigned the Apna Center in Devali by filling the walls with beautiful paintings. Involving the children she changed the former grey building into a colorful space for children.

Annalena says: “The time at Jatan was a very precious experience for me. The project is doing an important job, in that it tries to motivate the children to learn and go to school. Working with the children was a lot of fun and it was great to see their enthusiasm. Making the children happy made me happy, too”
